REVOLUTIONARY WAR SOLDIERS & PATRIOTS

Revolutionary War, 1775-1783

From April 19, 1775 when Minutemen and British redcoats clashed at Lexington and Concord, Massachusetts until September 3, 1783 when The Treaty of Paris was signed, American colonists fought a ragtag, difficult war for independence and self-government. Men and boys would enlist, serve a few months, go home to get in crops or recuperate from wounds, and then enlist again. Women struggled to care for families, farm, run businesses, and provide supplies to the troops.

There seemed little doubt at the start of the conflict that England would prevail. An estimated 7,200 soldiers and sailors lost their lives, cities were destroyed, commerce and farming disrupted, disease and hunger were often suffered. Success was elusive. When The British General Lord Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown and open hostilities ceased on October 19, 1781, the inconceivable had occurred. The former British colonies were independent and a new nation of self-governing people could be formed. At the Yorktown surrender, Cornwallis realizing the enormity of change the colonists' victory signified, asked his military band to play a popular tune of that time, "The World Turned Upside Down."

The United States would still have many years of struggle to define itself, create a workable constitution, and ensure that the union would endure. Some might argue we are still struggling to effect an ever more perfect union and realize the promise in the Declaration of Independence and the much later "Bill of Rights" in the American Constitution:

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.

Veterans of the Revolution not only returned home to take up their daily lives, many went on to pioneer and settle lands far to the west of the original thirteen colonies. Quite a few of these veterans came to live and eventually die and be buried in Wayne County, Indiana. Between Memorial Day 2009 and July 4, 2009, Morrisson-Reeves Library will be remembering these Revolutionary patriots.

Addington, John

Dean – Land Entry; Doddridge, p.1; Greg Hinshaw Letter; INSSAR; Waters, p.3; Waters Supp., p.142

BORN: England, son of Henry (Henery) and Sarah Addington.

SERVICE: The following information is from Dr. Greg Hinshaw a descendant of John Addington. Attached, please find material from two books on John Addington. The information that says he is buried in Ridgeville is wholly incorrect.

While John did have two brothers who served in the Revolution, I don't think that there is any real evidence that he did. I also offer as evidence for my position the fact that he joined Friends (we are, theoretically pacifists, you know) in 1774. He married in a Quaker ceremony in 1775. The records of Bush River Monthly Meeting, where he was a member, are complete for the period, and there is no evidence that he was disciplined for military activities.

John Addington was my fifth-great grandfather. In the line of his second wife (Elizabeth Heaton) adds two additional generations of Friends to my line. John's son, Thomas, came to Randolph County, where he was a founder of Sparrow Creek Meeting. Thomas's daughter-in-law, Susannah, was a charter member of Bear Creek Meeting in 1874. My family has worshipped at Bear Creek in the years since. That is ten generations of Friends going back to the earliest years of the Society.

PROOF: D. A. R. Vol.28, p.156.

DIED: 1819, Chester, Indiana.

BURIED: Ridgeville Cemetery, Randolph County.

[Greg Hinshaw disputes that this is Addington's burial site. He sent a few pages from Veda Addington Lindsey's, Addington: The Family of Henry and Sarah Addington, Beginning in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, pp.29-34. On page 32, the pages from this work state, "It is believed that John and Elizabeth (Heaton) Addington are buried in the Quaker Cemetery on the edge of their land along with John's mother Sarah."]

MARRIED: First Marriage to Mary Lamb, a Quaker of Bush River Monthly Meeting, Newberry County South Carolina, circa 1769. She died April 25, 1774. Second Marriage to Elizabeth Heaton, Bush River Monthly Meeting, Newberry County, South Carolina on May 3, 1775. She was the daughter of Joseph and Leada Heaton. She died in Chester, Indiana.

The license was issued in Preble County, Ohio, but he was living in Wayne County, Indiana. She was the daughter of John Townsend;
John Addington, born October 13, 1777;
Thomas Addington, born December 1, 1778, died March 8, 1839, who married on October 11, 1807 Mary or Tamar Smith. She was born January 18, 1786, died April 25, 1845;
Mary Addington, born November 2, 1780, died March 12, 1866, who married Thomas Roberds in 1803;
Sarah Addington, born September 12, 1783, died August 26, 1814, who married Phineas Roberts in 1809;
Elizabeth Addington, who married James Martindale in 1809;
James Addington, who married Nancy Lewellyn on June 15, 1809. They were married in Preble County, Ohio, but he lived in Wayne County, Indiana.

[INSSAR: The above children are all named in William's will and are listed in birth order. The surname is spelled three ways in the will: Ballenger, Ballinger, and Ballanger. The six sons we have traced all used the spelling Ballenger.]

[INSSAR: Information provided by Randolph Currie: After the war he married in Culpeper, but soon moved to Loudoun Co., where he worked as overseer for several years. On Dec. 11, 1788 he was issued a Virginia land warrant for 200 acres in Kentucky, but he did not move to the KY land. Around 1790/91 he moved to Fluvanna Co., VA, where he lived until late 1809, when he and his second wife moved to Nicholas Co., KY. While living in KY, he applied for a pension, which was granted under the Act of 1818, with payment starting 2 Oct. 1818. After the act was revised, William was dropped from the rolls, probably because he owned land. While still a resident of KY, he bought land in Wayne Co., IN, where a son and a son-in-law had moved, but he did not move there until after 1820. Shortly after the move, his second wife died, and he married his third wife in Wayne Co. William Ballenger signed his will 20 March, 1825; it was proved 25 July of the same year. His grave marker is a crudely engraved field stone which we found just recently in the Williamsburg, IN Cemetery - the same cemetery where three of his sons are buried. The cemetery is located only a mile or so from his Wayne Co. farm, but the stone has escaped notice because it is small, and contains only the following information: "W + B/ AE 68 – 1825."]

[Waters: Born 1768; died 1834; buried Bryant's (sic Bryan's ?) Chapel Cemetery. (A different man from the one in the Roster, Vol.1, page.400.) D. A. R. Vol.27, p.118.]

[Waters Supp.: Delete. I think D.A.R. reference is wrong. A descendant says that, to her knowledge, there is only one William Crawford buried in Bryant's (sic Bryan's) Chapel Cemetery. (Roster, p.400, born 1745, died 1826) and that his stone confirms the dates. The William Crawford of the D. A. R. reference, born 1768, died 1834, could be the son William named in the Roster. The 1831 list of rejected pensions (under 1818 and 1820 laws) lists a William Crawford "of Indiana." He is probably the R. 2467 New Jersey in the National Genealogical Society's Quarterly Index of Revolutionary War Pension Applications. I have not had the chance to read this file to see if it refers to the father above, to his problematical son, or to a still-unidentified William Crawford of some other Indiana county. I am inclined to think it is the father (Roster, p.400) since R. 2467 New Jersey gives widow Martha --- although Indiana Pioneer Society lineage says he came to Wayne County, Indiana from Virginia. There is only one William Crawford in the 1820 Census of Wayne County, Indiana. References: Mrs. Floyd Hines, Connersville, Indiana; Mrs. Forrest E. Kempton, Centerville, Indiana.]

"The body of George Holman, one of the first settlers of Wayne County, who was a soldier of the Revolution, was buried within a few yards of the beautiful statue of the Pioneer Mother and there it rested many years. Mr. Holman, when very young man, took part in the only battle of the Revolutionary War that was fought on Indiana soil, according to English's History of the George Rogers Clark expedition and Dunn's History of Indiana. COMPILER'S NOTE: Captain Nathaniel Leonard is always referred to as having lived and died in Henry County, Indiana, but is he actually buried in Wayne County, Indiana and how did he come to be there? It is not clear if the above information refers to two individuals with the same name, both from New Jersey, and both having served in the Revolutionary War or a single individual.

If there are two men, then one was supposedly buried in Sampson's Nation's Burial Grounds, also known as Herr Farm Cemetery, but really was buried in Nation's (Washington) Old Baptist Cemetery Dudley Township.

Later this man was reinterred in New Lisbon Cemetery, New Lisbon, Dudley Township, Henry County, Indiana. All of these locations are in Dudley Township, Henry County, Indiana.

The second man is buried at South Lawn Cemetery, Jackson Township, Wayne County, Indiana.

If there is but one Revolutionary War veteran from this area named Nathaniel Leonard, then I can't explain the two burial locations.

Note 1:

Sampson's Nation's Burial Grounds, also known as Herr Farm Cemetery – Established 1820s.

This little long abandoned burial ground is located in Dudley Township just south of CR #500 south in section #7 on the Bennett and Esther Mills property. It has most likely not received any care of any kind since the late 19th century; it has been completely abandoned and forgotten.

Tom Hamm says in his Dudley township cemetery inscriptions book that Nathaniel Leonard was buried here, but he wasn't, he was buried in the old Baptist cemetery about 200 yards south of here. I talked to the gravedigger who disinterred the remains of Nathaniel and reburied them at New Lisbon. He showed me where the remains had been buried.

This burial ground was most likely started by the family of Sampson Nation who died in 1825, according to county probate records, and his wife Susannah Johnson who followed two years later and was also buried here.

Very few people are even aware of this place so it will eventually disappear forever in a few years, but its location will at least be recorded in Henry County and State DNR cemetery records.

Note 2:

Nation's (Washington) Old Baptist Cemetery Dudley Township – Established 1826.

This old cemetery, hidden away, back in the woods, just south of the Herr Farm cemetery was deeded by Seth Nation to Jeremiah Swafford, William Rudden and Elisha Shortridge, Trustees of the Baptist church for use as a burying ground, in 1826. Thomas Hamm referred to it as the South cemetery in his book -Cemetery Records of Dudley Township-. The church was in existence before that date and later used as a schoolhouse. This I believe, is probably one of the first burial grounds in Henry County. The earliest marker I found here was for Mary Washington, 1824. Nathaniel Leonard, a Revolutionary War Veteran who died on 13 Oct 1824, I have been told by the gentleman that re-interred him in the New Lisbon cemetery, was originally buried here. The cemetery looks as though it should contain more gravestones here that are buried. It was completely overgrown. There are several pieces of broken stones lying around the grounds. It has probably not been cared for in the last one hundred years.

Note 3:

New Lisbon Cemetery, New Lisbon, Dudley Township, Henry County, Indiana – Established 1861

The New Lisbon cemetery was established on 18 Mar 1861 when Henry and Barbara Hart deeded to John S. Shopff, trustee of Dudley Township, a gift of a lot now fenced and being used for a burial grounds, the following real estate in Henry County, Indiana. Section #11 containing ¼ of an acre to be used as a burial grounds forever.

On 25 Dec 1880 Esther Nation deeded to John Shopff and/or Englebert Steltzer 1/8 of an acre for an addition to the New Lisbon cemetery to be used for family burials.

Today this cemetery is located on the southwest side of New Lisbon, just outside of town on County Road #500 south, just south of the road. It is well taken care of with only a few stones needing restored.

The cemetery is still used quite frequently for burials, as there have been several burials over the last few years. It is well maintained and regularly mowed and kept clean, with no trash present. With the ever-increasing cost of cemetery lots going up more everyday in the newer established cemeteries, the older cemeteries are starting to see more burials.

The New Lisbon cemetery burials were first recorded by Thomas D Hamm in 1977 when 850 burials were recorded. I returned to the cemetery and updated that list with an additional 164 burials since 1977 for a total of 1014 burials as of April 2006.

Roddy, Christopher

Dean – Land Entry; Doddridge, p.14; Waters Supp., p.86

BORN: ?

SERVICE: Virginia.

[Waters Supp.: (Quoting Smith) "He fought through the whole seven years of the Revolutionary War. . . . Mr. Roddy emigrated with his family to the Territory of Indiana, and settled in what is now Wayne County in the year 1810 or 1811. . . . While Roddy was a non-commissioned officer In the army of the Revolution, on one occasion he gave a mortal affront to a second lieutenant who challenged him to fight a duel. By the 'code of honor' the challenged party had the right to choose the weapons, the place, and the mode of fighting. Roddy accepted the challenge, chose a heavy cavalry saber for his antagonist and a shoemaker's awl for himself. The place of fighting was to be a large brick oven. The fight was not to commence till both were fairly in the oven. The idea was so novel and ridiculous that his antagonist withdrew the challenge, abandoned the fight, and there the matter ended. . . . Had he embraced religion in his youth and lived a pious life he might have accomplished good, and might have died in peace, but his life was a stormy one, his old age melancholy, and the day of his death dark." BORN: November 6, 1762, Pennsylvania.

SERVICE: Served under General Green for three years. Enlisted at the age of 17, Private of the 2nd Class of North Carolina. Was a Quaker.

John Townsend of Quaker English descent was drafted into the British Army. Because of the cruel treatment of prisoners, he soon deserted and joined the American forces. He was stricken with smallpox and was left to walk home to South Carolina. He was found at Charlottesville, North Carolina, completely exhausted, by a little girl, 12 years of age.

He was cared for at the cabin of one of the slave women, owned by the girl's father. After his recovery, he returned to the army. After the war was over he was married to the girl who had saved his life. When she became of age she fell heir to 20 slaves, all of whom she freed, much to the displeasure of her family. One of the "Mammies" chose to live with her, and served her all her life. They moved to Waynesville, Ohio and in 1807 to Richmond. Their farm was then southeast of Richmond, is now part of the city. Their youngest son, Stephen, born in 1810, taught in the first school house in Wayne County, which now stands in Glen Miller Park. John Townsend was so loyal to the Quaker principles that he refused a pension for the same reason. The remains of John Townsend were moved from the Quaker Cemetery at Middleboro and buried in the Cemetery at Fountain City, where the D. A. R. held appropriate ceremonies and will put up a Government marker, as soon as it arrives. He served under General Greene for 3 years, or until the end of the war.

Marriage Records Wayne County, Indiana, March 11, 1811 to March 23, 1860.

Some sources included the names of the spouses of the children of a soldier or patriot. When these sources did so, and I was fairly certain of a match, I included the information found and the source citation from this work. There were many more possible connections that I did not note. Genealogists tracing descent from one of these Revolutionary War soldiers and patriot's will want to look at this for themselves
